Sometimes when you least expect it, something strange pops into your day. Let’s face it, life’s like that. Whether that unexpected surprise ends up becoming a nightmare, a brief blip on the radar or the trigger of a cool new opportunity depends a lot on how you’re prepared to handle the unexpected.

We have a remedy for that. Bestselling author David Allen’s new book, Ready for Anything, offers 52 productivity principles to clear your head, focus productively, create structures that work, and get in motion so that no matter what pops up, it creates the right ripple in your pond.

Ready for Anything shows readers how to make things happen with less effort, stress, and ineffectiveness, and lots more energy, creativity and clarity. The 52 productivity principles format is an easy read, with a tip for every week of the year and an invaluable ‘instruction’ manual on how to smooth out any wrinkle that work and life presents.

October 15, 2003 - Los Angeles, CA
Marina Beach Marriott Hotel
7-9 pm

Fee is $99 and includes a copy of the Ready for Anything book
Groups of 4 or more $69 per person

For additional information or to register:
(805) 646-8432 or info@davidco.com
www.davidco.com